

My Invention

By Ava O'Dea

If I could invent anything in the world it would be a flying house. I would make this because you won't have to pay for flights or deal with big crowds at the airport. It would be more comfortable and stress free. The house will be environmentally friendly. It looks more like a house than a plane. It would be a reasonable size house where the roof has a balcony for looking out. The house will be controlled by your mobile phone. It can avoid objects and be a really safe form of travel
